The five-ounce gloves were weighed before the crowd and tossed into the ring. Then came five minutes of waiting for the men. At this hour there were some empty benches in the galleries, but the house was well filled. The temperature was comfortable, the light good. The rain had ceased. The crowd was uncoated. Buckward from the ringside white shirts, straw hats and easier faces banked up in there to the galleries. The men were prompt—9.13 closek marked from the figure of lilinois, in the Olympic Club's area last night, after fourteen stiff rounds of fighting. In the opinion of a majority of the speciators Myer was clearly outclassed and was never "in it" after the first round.

The Olympic Club's building is a wigwam-like structure of boards, much resembling the bern-like hall in Chicago in which the last Democratic National Convention was held. Nearly 7,000 men there were, and not a woman's face in the great throng.

The structure, like that at Chicago, leaked bomewhat. Rain poured upon the roof as the crowd was gathering, and streams of water were failing through a vulnerable place in the roof down into the ring. This, how-ree, was stopped almost as soon as it was discovered.

Meyer Thisks He Could Have Won.

Myer was very week when he was taken to his corner, but his laithful seconds worked diligently on him with slimulants and brought him around. He slipped on his fother after a while and then went to his room, where he was found some time after spread hill length on a lounge, his brother Eddle sitting by his side bathing his face with whistey and ammonia. Myer's lip was swollen and his eyes were blackened, but otherwise he was not in bad shape.

He said the result of the fight did not bother him. If he had fought McAuliffe like he fought Carroll, he would have won. He said he was fresh as a daisy when he went up for the last round, and was not expecting to lose, when he was caught by McAuliffe's swinging right. He does not think McAuliffe is a better man, but is not complaining of the result, and is satisfied if the crowd was pleased with the fight.

The Myer party will not go home at once, but will stay and see the remaining battles. Joe Godjard, the Australian, said: "I was a good fight, but one sided all the time. McAuliffe was a winner all the way through. Myer is plucks, but very awkward. I don't like his straidic because it takes away from him his Meyer Thinks He Could Have Won.

New Origans, Sept. 6.—The second event in the Olympic Club's carnival will occur to-NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—The second event in the Olympic Club's carnival will occur to-night in the meeting between feather-weight at Mr. M. Wilson's 196-419 and 1911 B way, N. Y. At Adrian Paradis, 191 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y. hampion George E. Dixon, of Boston, and lack Skelly, the amateur from Brooklyn. They will fight at 118 pounds for a purse of $7,500 and a side bet of $5,000 each.

Dixon is a tavorite in the betting, but there are not a few Northerners here who believe that Skelly will lorce the colored champion to strike his colors. The interest in this match is almost as great as in that of last night. Both men are said to be in good shape, and a long and stubborn light is expected.
